Energy and Sustainability Seminar “Smart Building to Smart Grid”

April 28, 2010, 8 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
BOMA-Atlanta Conference Center
2987 Clairmont Road, Suite 100, Atlanta, GA 30329

"Energy" is in the news and at the top of everyone's mind. While considered one of the most important topics of our times, it can mean many things to different people: alternative energy, smart grids, carbon tax credits, stimulus funding, green buildings, turning off the lights, electric cars and the list goes on. Another problem with identifying the issues and subsequent opportunities when dealing with energy is sifting thru the noise & really understanding where green, sustainability, intelligent buildings and smart grids can impact operations in a realistic and positive way. This seminar series has attempted to sort thru the topic of energy & make it extremely relevant to the owners and operators of Commercial & Corporate Real Estate.

This class has been approved for four continuing education credits by the Georgia Real Estate Commission. From 7:30 - 8 a.m. there will be continental breakfast and registration.
